

It is an act of nobility—of kindly thoughtfulness—for a man to select a family burial plot himself and thus relieve his widow or children of the task in a darker hour.

PROOF POURING IN

G. O. P. Chairman Determined to Make Good His Charges of Crookedness.

NEW WET ORGANIZATION

Committee in Charge of the July Fourth Parade Receives Charter.

George A. Glynn, chairman of the Republican State Committee, who on Tuesday, when Mayor Hylan sent to Police Commissioner Enright the opinion by Corporation Counsel O'Brien holding that the police had no right to search dwellings or persons for liquor unless armed with warrants, issued a statement declaring that graft running into the millions was being made in this city out of illicit liquor selling and that enforcement officers were getting their share of it, backed up his statement yesterday by saying that within a few days he will give names and amounts.

He declared he had ample facts in his possession when he made the general charge on Tuesday, but withheld them purposely in order to see if publication would not equip him with more. And exactly as he had expected, he asserted yesterday, more facts began to pour in on him as soon as his charge was read. He said last night that the day had brought him proof even from sources which he believed unfriendly to him for political reasons, but that before he would make any of them public he would offer them first to Federal and State prosecuting officers.

Frank C. Drake, director of the wet parade, which is to march up Fifth avenue on July 4, announced yesterday that the parade committee, with a lot of new blood added, had resolved itself into a permanent organization and had received a charter as the American Liberties League. The new league, Mr. Drake says, has for one of its primary objects the incitation and dissemination of the basic principles of Americanism, but for its most definite one the maintenance of organized opposition to the prohibition amendment and all laws growing out of it.

Ten policemen, charged with failure to enforce dry legislation in Greenwich Village, were on the carpet in Police Headquarters yesterday and their trial day was set for next Wednesday.

Orders based on the Corporation Counsel's opinion not having reached Brooklyn yesterday, policemen there drove the abode of Mrs. Julia Demio of 293 Hudson avenue and arrested her in the Adams Street Court on the charge of unlawfully possessing a barrel of wine.

Twenty-two Brooklyn violators of the Volstead act took advantage of "bar-gain day" in the United States District Court there yesterday and were fined $50 each by Judge Garvin. All admitted their guilt and supplied proof they were no longer in illegal trade.

DRY AGENT GETS TRUCK OF BARRELS—ALL EMPTY

Montclair Driver Told Him Truth in Vain.

G. S. Rinner, an internal revenue agent who lies in Montclair, became suspicious early yesterday when a truck loaded with barrels rumbled past his house. He halted the truck and although the crew, Joseph A. Miller, Harold Nix and Clarence Hackett, denied they had liquor, Rinner compelled them to drive the truck to police headquarters. Rinner enlisted the aid of the police and fire departments, and patrolmen and firemen unloaded the truck and dumped the 100 barrels it contained into the street. Then each barrel was opened and examined, and each barrel was empty. Then the policemen and the firemen loaded them on the truck again and the truck went on its way.

BUFFALO MAN, BLIND, IS ADMITTED TO BAR

Prepares Himself, Although Totally Without Sight.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 29.—Sitting in the Grand Jury room at the court house today taking the bar examinations was a man fortune cannot daunt. He is John Patterson of Buffalo, totally blind, and despite his infirmity he has prepared himself carefully for a career at the bar.

The general examination was held in the rooms of the Board of Supervisors, but no proctor with no knowledge of law was specially assigned to sit with Patterson in the Grand Jury room next door and read the questions of the examination to him.

Patterson, who dictated his answers, has been studying for several years fitting himself to become a lawyer.

WOUNDED VETERANS OFFER TO FIGHT SOCIALIST CHIEFS

Invasion Detroit Convention to Demand Explanation of Alleged Slur on Flag—Algernon Lee Explains, but Further Hostilities Are Threatened.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, Detroit, June 29.—Seventy-five wounded veterans of the world war invaded the convention of the Socialist party in Auto Workers Hall today, demanding an explanation of statements accredited to Socialists that "there is only one flag, the red flag," and asked any Socialist delegate who had that idea to "step outside and fight."

They drew replies from Cameron King, Socialist editor, who explained why the Socialists opposed war, and from Algernon Lee, a New York attorney.

They then withdrew despite the fact that no explanation was made by the Socialist speakers regarding the attitude of the convention on the red flag.

"If any one has the red flag idea let us discuss it in a man to man way outside this hall," Capt. Ralph T. Horr of Seattle, a wounded veteran, told the convention, and his supporters applauded him.

Horr said the veterans did not intend to tolerate disrespect for the American flag and would meet the efforts of those he called the "extremists of the Socialist party" by "force with force."

The statement made by a Communist speaker in the Socialist convention which brought the veterans to the Socialist hall was:

"But we will not fight for them as 100 per cent. Americans, but only under the red flag of the Socialist party."

Cameron King of California, chairman of the Socialist session, said the Socialist party appreciated the sacrifices of the men calling on them and understood the impulses which had caused them to go to war.

"But the Socialist party also made sacrifices," he said, "standing on the principle that the war was unnecessary. There was one movement throughout the world that tried to preserve world peace and that was the Socialist movement, and if that movement had been successful your sacrifices would have been unnecessary."

Horr threatened to lead another delegation against the Socialists.

"We may go back there to-morrow morning and drape an American flag over their platform," he said.

HAYNES PLANS BIG RUM RAIDING FORCE

Will Be Stationed in Washington Ready to Pounce Anywhere for Cleanup Work.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, Washington, D. C., June 29.

General plans for reorganization of prohibition enforcement forces throughout the country were announced by Commissioner Haynes today.

Supervising Federal prohibition agents are to be abolished and Federal prohibition directors will be appointed in each State to do all supervisory work. Salaries of these directors will be adjusted in accordance with the volume and importance of their work.

Federal prohibition inspectors are to be abolished and all investigation work done by Federal prohibition agents. The latter will be distributed to the offices of directors for reorganization of prohibition enforcement forces throughout the country.

The present plan of field work, it is said, has been found wanting and is to be abandoned. The Commissioner lists the advantages to be derived from reorganization as follows:

1. Annual saving of the appropriation of more than $100,000 in salaries alone.

2. Centralization of responsibility; coordination in handling the permissive and enforcement features of the work; elimination of friction, uncertainty and confusion relative to the exact work developing upon the respective offices.

3. Assurance of more direct and therefore, more effective administration of the law in each State.

4. Elimination of duplicated work as to inspections and investigations.

5. Consolidation of files, thus making available important information of vital interest concerning permittees, which records are now prepared and filed separately in the respective offices of the director and the supervising agent.

Discontinuance of correspondence now necessary between offices as well as duplication of correspondence between field offices and the bureau, the United States Attorneys and private individuals.

Saving in travel expenses as a single inspector or investigator will answer the purpose of both phases of the work, whereas under the present plan a separate investigation is made by a member of the director's force and also by a member of the supervising agent's force. Under the proposed plan a field officer will be qualified to make any investigation or inspection required and will therefore be able to make a complete canvass of any locality in which he may be working.

OFFICIALS CONFER ON AUTOMOBILE ARGUMENT

In Controversy With New Jersey in Regard to Arrests.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, Albany, June 29.

The automobile controversy between the State authorities of New York and New Jersey was the subject of a conference today between Secretary of State John J. Lyons and Attorney-General Charles D. Newton.

Mr. Lyons said afterward he expected to announce the policy of this State in regard to the differences within a few days.

The trouble was brought to a head when Motor Commissioner Dill of New Jersey carried out his threat by having arrested New York motorists driving in that State without New Jersey licenses several weeks ago. He declared he would follow out that course unless the New York State authorities repudiated the action of a Judge in Tuxedo who fined a New Jersey youth for driving a car when under 18 years of age.

Commissioner Dill charged the arrest of the youth was a violation of the reciprocal arrangement between the two States.

MILES OF RED TAPE BIND ONE LOST HAT

Student Hiked Them All Before Uncle Sam Would Loosen a Yard.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, New York Herald Bureau, Washington, D. C., June 29.

Here is the latest specimen of Government "red tape." They say it is the longest piece in a noted collection.

A group of college students climbed to the top of the Washington Monument. The elevator was out of commission. A senior arriving at the top, exhausted, fell against one of the windows, 555 feet up, and his hat rocketed down the elevator shaft.

The hatless college lad sought the aid of a guard, who sent him back down the thousands of steps to the monument office, where he obtained an order for the opening of the lower elevator door. Armed with his pass the youth rushed back. Then he was curtly told that he must have the counter signature of another attendant. And this attendant at the moment was at the top of the shaft. Breathless the boy to establish his identity, he climbed the thousands of steps again all the way to the top and after getting the signature turned around and descended the thousands more.

The lad got his hat. He also got inside information on Government red tape. Officials, learning of the incident, felt that "Gen. Hell" and "Maria Dawes," in the course of Government housecleaning, may hurl his spectacular form against some of these specimens of needless rules which clutter up all agencies in Washington.

ANTI-BEER BILL HAS MAJORITY IN SENATE

Canvass Shows 54 Senators for the Bill, 13 Opposed and 29 Non-Committal.

WHEELER AT HEARING

Druggists, Medicine Makers and Liquor Dealers Offer Their Criticisms.

SPEEDY ACTION FORECAST

Many Support Measure as in Nature of a Test of Law Enforcement.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, Washington, D. C., June 29.

The overwhelming majority by which the Willis-Campbell anti-beer and whiskey bill was approved in the House is very likely to be duplicated in the Senate when the vote is taken according to a careful canvass of the situation made by THE NEW YORK HERALD today.

The measure was discussed today by witnesses who appeared before the Senate subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee, and many criticisms were offered against it by representatives of the Wholesale Liquor Dealers Association, of the National Association of Manufacturers of Proprietary Medicines, the National Druggists Association and various others speaking in behalf of business enterprises that promise to be hard hit by the stringent provisions of the proposed legislation.

Favorable Report Assured.

But Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, was present and seemed to gain a much more sympathetic hearing from the subcommittee headed by Senator Sterling (S. D.), and including Senators Cummins (Ia.) and Walsh (Mont.). The bill will be reported favorably to the full committee, which may hold a special meeting in order to finally report the bill to the Senate this week.

Senator Willis (Ohio), author of the bill, told the committee he thought they should give the Senate a chance to vote speedily on the bill, and predicted to THE NEW YORK HERALD that it would pass by an overwhelming majority, a prophecy that the canvass of the Senate indicates will be fulfilled. In fact, sentiment is so greatly in favor of the bill that a record vote may not be taken.

That does not mean that all those who vote for it are actually in favor of legislation personally. Politically, however, the Senate, like the House, regards it as in the nature of a test of law enforcement. One Senator, who consistently has voted wet from conviction, told THE NEW YORK HERALD today he might vote for the anti-beer bill solely because he believes, not in prohibition, but in law enforcement. He would not permit his name to be used and frankly said he has not made up his mind which way he will vote and will not until he has had a greater opportunity to study the provisions of the bill.

Senator Broussard (La.), who criticized the bill in the Senate yesterday, told THE NEW YORK HERALD he hoped for a "good showing" in the final vote, but he preferred not to enter into any further discussion now.

There was general reluctance on the part of even the dry Senators to state fully how they intend to vote, but from the various evidences indicating how the vote will finally run, if there should be a roll call, there are fifty-four votes surely for the bill, thirteen surely against it and twenty-nine non-committal are doubtful. Here is the probable lineup, if a vote were taken on the bill today:

TIED OF RAIDS ON HIS SHIP.

Captain Collects Liquor for Customs Men.

Two hundred quarts of liquor of the most alcoholic, illegal and tasty beverages were waiting for customs officials in the cabin of Capt. A. Osborn of the Munson liner Munamar when she docked here yesterday after a voyage from Antilla, Cuba.

Capt. Osborn explained that he was getting tired of having his ship used as a liquor lugger, and that accordingly he had made a thorough search of her and gathered up all the wet goods concealed on board to save the customs men time.
